

hold-up volume

in chromatography

The volume of eluent required to elute a component, the concentration of which in the stationary phase is negligible compared to that in the mobile phase.

Source:

Orange Book, p. 100